Art Unit: 1771

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. More particularly, in claim 1, last line, "a" pressure-sensitive adhesive layer should be more clearly indicated as being either a second psa layer in the adhesive tape, or the previously stated psa layer, or either one if such is intended to be the case. In claim 3 the two "preferably" clauses should be amended in a manner to eliminate this language from the claim.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-4, 6,7, and 11-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over US 2003/0049437 A1 to Devaney et al. Note particularly Figure 3, Paragraphs 0011-0018, 0030, 0033-0038,

Art Unit: 1771

0043, 0053. The reference discloses, in certain embodiments, particularly Fig 3, a cover tape which is inherently antistatic and can be formed from polyester substrate 32 having electroconductive material layer 36 coated thereon, which has on its opposite surface adhesive layer 34 which can be a pressure sensitive adhesive [0053]. With respect to the dependent claims not already encompassed by the above analysis note that the electrically conductive layer can be made from a dispersion of conductive polymers such as 3,4 PEDT [0038], the presence of a 'shrinkback" (claim 6) in the psa layer is believed to be an inherent property of the antistatic pressure sensitive adhesive, and the range of wt% values for the electrically conductive particles is believed to be, if not expressly (e.g. Examples) or inherently present an obvious optimization for one of ordinary skill.

6. Claims 5, 8-10 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Devaney et al. The reference is again relied upon substantially as set forth, above, with such variables as the presence of polyacrylate psa's (claims 5,15), the specific ordering of multilayer tapes (claims 8,9) and the presence of punched tapes and products (claim 10) each believed to be obvious modifications to one of ordinary skill in the art, in the absence of unexpected results.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note also the PG Pub to the applicants, Husemann et al and a machine translation of the Claims and Detailed Description of JP 2001-152105, cited by applicants.
